We are currently growing our organization with the following senior level position:

Senior Research Analyst— Mines & Metals

Join our newly created Capital Market Research team and provide innovative research and investment ideas in support of internal active equity pools managed by the equity department. Conducting research on the development of investment themes to guide long-term strategic positioning of client portfolios will be another facet of your role.

You have 5 or more years' experience in specialized resource sector analysis that supports your degree in engineering, geology, mining or a related discipline. A team player and a willing mentor inclined to take initiative and responsibility, you also bring superior analytic and modeling skills to this role.

With its temperate climate, natural beauty and relaxed atmosphere, it's no wonder Greater Victoria (population 330,000) attracts people from all over Canada, the US and abroad to its Pacific shores. For more community information, visit www.victoria.ca.
