

Dr. Ed Yardeni
President
Yardeni Research Inc.

Ed Yardeni is the president of Yardeni Research, Inc., a provider of global investment strategy and asset allocation analyses and recommendations. He has taught at Columbia University's Graduate School of Business and was an economist at the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. Dr. Yardeni has also held positions at the Federal Reserve Board of Governors and the US Treasury Department.

He frequently appears on CNBC and Bloomberg Television and is quoted in the financial press, including the Wall Street Journal, the Financial Times, the New York Times, and Barron's.

Dr. Yardeni published Predicting the Markets: A Professional Autobiography in 2018. In this book, he shares his unique insights into predicting the trends and cycles in the domestic and global economies and financial markets—including stocks, bonds, commodities, and currencies—based on the first 40 years of his career on Wall Street.