

Libby Bernick
Head of Sustainability
Morningstar

Libby Bernick is Head of Sustainability at Morningstar Inc, a leader in the financial services industry helping to empower investor success. Libby leads the corporate sustainability program and the global ESG strategy for the Morningstar enterprise and works with investors, asset managers and financial advisors looking to understand sustainable investing and ESG factors. For over 25 years she has worked to integrate sustainability data into business decision-making, leading global initiatives on topics like climate, water risk, the sustainable development goals, and sustainable plastic use.

Prior to joining Morningstar, Libby was managing director at Trucost, part of S&P Global, where she led a global ESG business unit. Libby is a regular speaker at international industry events and frequent commentator in the media on sustainable finance and ESG.
